“As Asia’s importance in the global economy continues to expand, there will be a greater demand for lawyers who understand and can move comfortably between multiple legal systems and legal cultures.”

ALEX SEVERANCE [LL.M. '08], UNITED STATES

“This is a truly international experience, a cultural melting pot.”

ARPANA VASANTH KUMAR [LL.M. '08], INDIA

“NYU@NUS is the first multinational law school. Our home isn’t New York. Our home isn’t Singapore. Our home is the entire world where law is studied and practiced.”

PROFESSOR STANLEY SIEGEL, NYU SCHOOL OF LAW

Global vantage

With opportunities for study in Singapore, Shanghai, and New York City, the LL.M. in Global Business Law offers a world-class perspective on law in the 21st century. Graduates also earn a second LL.M. degree from the National University of Singapore (NUS) Faculty of Law, Asia’s Global Law School.

The rigorous training of an NYU LL.M.—with a focus on Asia and its relations with the world

Distinguished NYU Law faculty arrive in Singapore each May to teach the majority of classes. Students also take classes with NUS Law faculty and can choose an NUS LL.M. with a specialization in Corporate & Financial Services Law, Intellectual Property & Technology Law, International & Comparative Law, Maritime Law, or Asian Legal Studies.

A valuable foothold in China

Students have the option of taking courses in Shanghai at the East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPL). Classes are taught by NUS professors as part of that university’s international business law program.

A unique path to the New York bar exam

After the completion of both master’s degrees, new graduates may attend a 100-hour seminar in New York offering intensive exposure to legal institutions, thought, and practice in the United States. The seminar begins in May (a year after students start the dual degree program in Singapore) and concludes in time to sit for the New York bar exam in July.
