Its contribution to the Court's budget

For 2011 the Court's budget amounted to just over 58.9 million euros. That budget is financed by contributions from the 47 member States of the Council of Europe in accordance with scales based on population and GDP; the 2011 contribution of Germany to the Council of Europe's (EUR 211.4 million) budget was EUR 24 654 554.

The Registry

The task of the Registry is to provide legal and administrative support to the Court in the exercise of its judicial functions. It is composed of lawyers, administrative and technical staff and translators. There are currently 640 Registry staff members of whom 28 are German.

At the end of 2011, the Court had delivered 234 judgments concerning Germany, of which 159 found at least one violation of the European Convention on Human Rights.

Noteworthy cases, judgments delivered

Grand Chamber

Vogt v. Germany

26.09.1995

Applicant dismissed from civil service (Federal Republic of Germany – prior to reunification) because of her political activities within the German Communist Party (DKP).

Violation of Article 10 (freedom of expression)

Violation of Article 11 (freedom of assembly and association)

Streletz, Kessler, Krenz, and K.-H.W v. Germany

22.03.2001

The case concerned the post-reunification conviction of East German leaders for murder, because by taking part in high-level decision making they had been instrumental in the deaths of people who had tried to flee to the West between 1971 and 1989. The applicants submitted that the acts on account of which they had been prosecuted did not constitute offences at the time when they were committed and that their conviction by the German courts had therefore been unlawful.

No violation of Article 7 (no punishment without law)

Prince Hans-Adam II of Liechtenstein v. Germany

12.07.2001

The monarch of Liechtenstein alleged in particular that he had no effective access to court concerning his claim for the restitution of a painting confiscated in 1946 by former Czechoslovakia, while it was in one of the family's castles on the territory of the now Czech Republic.

No violation of Article 6 § 1 (access to court and fairness of the proceedings)

No violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property)

No violation of Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination).

Sahin v. Germany & Sommerfeld v. Germany

08.07.2003

Refusal of German courts to grant two fathers access to their children born out of wedlock.

Violation of Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination) in conjunction with Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life)

No violation of Article 8 taken alone

Jahn and others v. Germany

30.06.2005

The applicants were required after the German reunification to relinquish, without compensation, land allocated to their descendants in the former Soviet-occupied zone.

No violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property) taken alone and in conjunction with Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination)

Sürmeli v. Germany

08.06.2006

The case concerned the length of proceedings before the national courts. The Court concluded that a constitutional complaint to the Federal Constitutional Court could not be considered an effective remedy against excessively long court proceedings that were still pending.

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy)

Violation of Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair hearing)

Jalloh v. Germany

11.07.2006

Administration of an emetic by force to the applicant (who was suspected of drug trafficking) to make him regurgitate bags containing drugs he was believed to have swallowed when arrested. The drugs were subsequently used as evidence in the criminal proceedings against him.

Violation of Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment)

Violation of Article 6 (right to a fair trial)

Mooren v. Germany

09.07.2009

Lack of speedy review of the lawfulness of the applicant's pre-trial detention – on suspicion of tax evasion – and refusal to grant the applicant's counsel access to the case file in the proceedings.

Violation of Article 5 § 4 \(right to have lawfulness of detention decided speedily by a court\)

No violation of Article 5 § 1 (right to liberty and security)

Gäfgen v. Germany (no. 22978/05)

01.07.2010

Convicted of kidnapping and killing a child, the applicant alleged that the police threatened him with torture to make him reveal where the child was (at a time when they believed the boy to be still alive), and that evidence obtained by coercion was used against him in trial. The Court found that the threats had amounted to inhuman treatment, but that the proceedings as a whole had been fair.

Violation of Article 3 \(prohibition of torture and inhuman treatment\)

No violation of Article 6 (right to a fair trial)

Concerning the publication of photographs in the press:

von Hannover v. Germany

07.02.2012

Complaint about the refusal of the German courts to prohibit the publication of holiday photos of the applicants (Princess Caroline von Hannover – daughter of the late Prince Rainier III of Monaco – and her husband Prince Ernst August von Hannover) taken without their consent. The impugned decisions were delivered after the Court's Caroline von Hannover judgment of 24.06.2004 (see above). The applicants relied on Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life). Jurisdiction was relinquished in favour of the Grand Chamber.

No violation of Article 8

Axel Springer AG v. Germany

07.02.2012

The case concerns the prohibition by the German courts of two newspaper articles about the arrest and the criminal conviction of a well known TV actor. The applicant company invoked Article 10 (freedom of press). Jurisdiction was relinquished in favour of the Grand Chamber.

Violation of Article 8 \(right to respect for private and family life\)

See also press release in German

Schneider v. Germany

15.09.2011

The case concerned the German courts' refusal to grant the applicant access to a boy who he claims is his biological son and whose legal father is the mother's husband.

Violation of Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life)

See also press release in German

Other cases concerning the respect for private life

Caroline von Hannover v. Germany

24.06.2004

Failure of German courts to afford applicant (daughter of the late Prince Rainier III of Monaco) adequate protection from the publication of photographs taken without her knowledge by paparazzi and showing her in her private life.

Violation of Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life)

Storck v. Germany

16.06.2005

Applicant's confinement to a locked ward of a psychiatric clinic without a court having ordered her placement or treatment.

Violation of Articles 5 § 1 (right to liberty and security)

Violation of Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life)

Brauer v. Germany

28.05.2009

Inability of applicant, who was born out of wedlock before 1949 and grew up in the former GDR (Eastern Germany) while her father lived in West Germany, to exercise inheritance rights following her father's death after German reunification.

Violation of Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination) in conjunction with Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life)

Obst and Schüth v. Germany

23.09.2010

Both cases concerned the applicants' dismissal from employment with a Church for engaging in an extra-marital relationship. Mr Obst held the post of European public relations officer within the Mormon Church; Mr Schüth was the organist and choirmaster in a Catholic parish in Germany.

No violation of Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life) in the case of Mr Obst;

Violation of Article 8 in the case of Mr Schüth

Inadmissible

von Maltzan and others v. Germany

Decision of 02.03.2005

The cases concerned the indemnification and compensation terms for those whose property was expropriated either after 1949 in the GDR (Eastern Germany) or between 1945 and 1949 in the former Soviet Occupied Zone of Germany. The applicants relied in particular on Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property) and Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination) taken together with Article 1 of Protocol No. 1.

Applications inadmissible

Appel-Irrgang v. Germany

Decision of 06.10.2009

The case concerned mandatory ethics classes for pupils of grade 7 to 10 in Berlin, which the applicants opposed. They relied on Article 9 (freedom of thought conscience and religion) and Article 2 of Protocol No. 1 (right to education),

The Court held in particular that according to the law in question the ethics classes' aim was to examine fundamental questions of ethics independently of pupils' cultural, ethnic and religious origins and that the classes were therefore in conformity with the principles of pluralism and objectivity embodied in Article 2 of Protocol No. 1.

Bock v. Germany

Decision of 19.01.2010

The case concerned the excessive length of proceedings before the administrative court concerning a claim for 7.99 EUR. The applicant complained under Articles 6 § 1 (right to a fair hearing within a reasonable time) and 13 (right to an effective remedy).
The Court considered the complaint an abuse of the right of application.

See also press release in German

Sfountouris and Others v. Germany

Decision of 31.05.2011

The case concerned the refusal of the German courts to award compensation to descendants of the victims of an SS massacre in Greece in 1944. The applicants relied on Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property) and Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination).

The Court declared the complaint inadmissible, holding in particular that the applicants had no legitimate expectation to be able to benefit from compensation for the damages sustained.

See also press release in German

Dojan and others v. Germany

Decision of 13.09.2011

The case concerned the complaints by five married couples about the authorities' refusal to exempt their children from mandatory sex education classes and other school activities which they alleged had constituted a disproportionate restriction of their right to educate their children in conformity with their religious convictions.

The Court declared the complaint inadmissible, holding in particular that there was no indication that the classes and activities at issue had put into question the parents' sexual education of their children based on their religious convictions. Neither had the school authorities manifested a preference for a particular religion or belief within those activities.

Baudler, Reuter, and Müller v. Germany

Decisions of 6 December 2011

The cases of Baudler and Reuter concerned decisions by the Protestant Church to place one clergyman on leave of absence and to oblige another to take early retirement. The case of Müller concerned a decision by the Salvation Army to terminate the missionary service of two officers. Relying on Article 6 § 1 (right of access to a court), the applicants complained that they did not have access to a court in order to obtain a review of the ecclesiastical measures taken, because the national courts had ruled that the impugned decisions were an internal Church matter and therefore not subject to judicial review.

The Court declared the complaints inadmissible, holding in particular, in the cases of Baudler and Reuter, that the proceedings instituted by the applicants had not related to a right recognised under German law such that Article 6 of the Convention could be brought into play. In the case of Müller, the Court concluded that the applicants could not argue that they had been deprived of the right to obtain a decision on the merits of their claim.

Noteworthy pending cases

Stübing v. Germany

Communicated to the Government in June 2010
The applicant grew up separately from his sister and, as an adult, had a relationship with her for several years, from which four children resulted. Relying on Article 8 (right to respect for family life), he complains of his criminal conviction for sexual intercourse between relatives.

Koch v. Germany

Declared admissible 31.05.2011

The case concerns the German authorities' refusal to grant the applicant's wife authorisation to acquire a lethal dose of drugs enabling her to commit suicide. She subsequently committed suicide in Switzerland, assisted by the organisation Dignitas. The applicant relies on Articles 8 (right to respect for private and family life) and 13 (right to an effective remedy). A hearing was held on 23 November 2010.

See also press release in German

Klausecker v. Germany

Communicated to the Government in May 2010
Having lost one eye, one hand and part of the fingers of his other hand in an accident, the applicant was refused employment with the European Patent Office (EPO), despite having passed the professional tests for a post as a patent examiner, as he did not meet the physical requirements of the post. Relying on Article 6 § 1, he complains that he did not have access to a court in order to protect his right not to be discriminated against, in particular because the EPO had immunity from the jurisdiction of the German courts.

Gebert, Schnepp, Bernschneider and Klöppel v. Germany

Communicated to the Government in August 2010

All four cases concern preventive detention ordered subsequent to the offenders' conviction.

Herrmann v. Germany

Chamber judgment 20.01.2011 – case pending before the Grand Chamber

The case concerns the applicant's complaint about being obliged to tolerate the hunt on his premises even though he is opposed to hunting on moral grounds. He relies on Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property), alone or taken together with Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination), and on Article 9 (freedom of thought conscience and religion). The case was referred to the Grand Chamber at the applicant's request. A hearing was held on 30 November 2011.
