About This Checklist

The Terrorism & Political Violence Checklist of ProQuest microform contains over 30 research collections and two serials. Inside you will find titles pertaining to the historical, sociological, political, economic and legal aspects of terrorism. This checklist also contains information about how to obtain Dissertations on Terrorism & Political Violence, as well as out of print books through our Books on Demand service.

The checklist would be of particular interest to researchers in the fields of Political Science, Law, Government, Conflict Studies, Political Violence, Human Rights and Social Science.

Two pivotal collections from the checklist are, Terrorism: A National Resource File and The National Security Archive Subset on Terrorism & U.S. Policy. These collections focus on all aspects of terrorism and political violence, such as global security, terrorist organizations and many other international issues. For those of you looking to enhance your serials in microform, Sinn Fein from Ireland would make an excellent additional to any library. This Irish nationalist newspaper replaced the earlier publication the United Irishman.

This preface provides a glimpse into the contents of the Terrorism & Political Violence Checklist of ProQuest microform. Feel free to browse through our titles, or if you are looking for a particular title, please consult the table of contents in the front. If you have any questions regarding any of our titles, please contact your ProQuest representative at umisalesinfo@proquest.com, 800.521.0600 ext. 2793 or 734.761.4700 ext. 2793.

If you would like additional copies of this or any of our ProQuest Microform Catalogs/Checklists, you may either make photocopies of the catalogs or contact your ProQuest representative to have printed copies mailed directly to you.

The Advantages of Microform

Despite the continually developing array of digital technologies—and sometimes because of it—information professionals at libraries and universities worldwide still rely on microform. They know it is an archival medium that will meet the needs of researchers for years to come. Microform provides many advantages including:

- New Viewer/Scanners - Images can now be easily sent to remote locations using microform viewer/scanners, which link to your computer workstations, letting you view and print articles or digitize and transmit them electronically (within Fair Use guidelines). This approach combines the unparalleled preservation and storage benefits of microform with the speed and ease of electronic access.
- Special Collections - Microform is the answer if you need hard-to-find or specialty resources. Many older newspapers and periodicals are available only in microform, and it gives your users access to complete page images from historical titles—often from the first issue forward.
- Space Savings - Microform lets you store an extensive collection of complete article images in a small amount of space. Microform takes up less than one-tenth the area of bound copies of newspapers and periodicals.
- Ownership - There is no upkeep or access fees. It uses stable, proven technology you already have, with no need for new workstations or continual software upgrades.
- Clarity and Accuracy - Microform is the answer if you need cover-to-cover clarity and accuracy. Full-image articles are essential to getting the full story.
- Complete Collection - Microform usually is the best solution if you need a complete collection fast. Maybe you're seeking accreditation or even rebuilding after a disaster. An extensive, customized collection of retrospective and current microform titles will meet the needs of your researchers quickly and efficiently.
- Support for Specialized Studies - A compact collection in microform will meet specialized research needs and still leave plenty of resources for the rest of your population. Many libraries also use microform as an added point of access for content that is most in demand.
- Durability - archived properly, it can last for generations, and there is no degradation of images.
- ProQuest Quality - ProQuest's microform images are taken directly from the original printed pages, so you always get the clarity of first-generation copies.

ProQuest Microform is the answer because we've been producing it since 1938. We not only exceed industry standards, we set them. Our microform products include thousands of newspapers and periodicals, and hundreds of research collections, many of which are not available from any other source.

(Organized Alphabetically)

Human Rights Watch Publications

1980 - 2008

Founded in 1978, Human Rights Watch is dedicated to protecting the rights of individuals worldwide. The organization conducts regular, systematic investigations of human rights abuses in approximately 70 countries and produces a wealth of timely publications documenting these crimes. Since it began publishing reports in 1980, Human Rights Watch has produced more than 1,200 publications, covering over 100 countries and ranging from 6-page, country-specific investigations to the comprehensive Human Rights Watch Annual Report and longer reports of 900 pages. All of these publications are now available on microfiche. The HRW microfiche collection is available on a year-of-publication basis.

"We see this as an important agreement, both for preservation of our publications and also for ease of access to the older materials, which are often difficult to find." –Patrick Minges, Director of Publications, Human Rights Watch.

Human Rights Watch publications contain information not available from any other source, covering many of the most significant issues of our times. They are relied upon by citizens' organizations, policymakers, the press, the academic community and concerned individuals worldwide. Libraries and their patrons will find the microfiche edition of the Human Rights Watch 1980-2008 publications to be an invaluable resource.

Ongoing supplements will be added to the Alternative Press collection on a yearly basis.

International Terrorism: Two League of Nations Conventions

1934 - 1937

Following the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and French Minister Louis Barthou, the League of Nations created an expert Committee that developed two conventions: one to define 'international terrorism' and another to establish an international criminal tribunal to report terrorism. This microform project presents the League proceedings, texts, reports, etc., pertaining to these two conventions, plus additional related diplomatic materials - many never before published. The texts are remarkably appropriate to modern-day debates on terrorism.

The National Security Archive

1939 - Present

'All of us who have a professional interest in contemporary security and foreign policy issues can only rejoice at the appearance of this new institutional resource.'

~ Gary Sick, Adjunct Professor of Middle East Politics, Columbia University

Previously classified documents on major foreign policy issues from the State Department and other federal agencies arranged by subject set on microfiche. For several years the National Security Archive, a non-profit research institute, has been working to locate, have declassified, organize and index government documents on key areas of U.S. policymaking. Through systematic document searching, sophisticated use of the Freedom of Information Act and computer based cataloging, the Archive has developed an unmatched collection of primary materials indispensable for research and public debate.

- Terrorism and U.S. Policy, 1968 - 2002

The principal focus of this collection is international terrorism. Beginning with the July 1968 hijacking of an El Al jet to Algiers, the first politically motivated hijacking and hostage-taking episode of its kind, the set provides coverage of literally dozens of incidents over the years. Special attention has gone to episodes that targeted Americans or U.S. interests. While the documents treat events from all over the world, the editors have given particular emphasis to the Middle East and Southwest Asia because of the special importance of that region for understanding this subject, particularly after September 11. One of the highlights of the collection is the selection of material won as the result of the lawsuit filed by former AP reporter and hostage Terry A. Anderson. Those documents, on file at the National Security Archive, include highly sensitive reports from U.S. military and other intelligence elements that give important insights into the scope and depth of intelligence reporting and analysis about terrorism in the 1980s. Another feature of the published collection is a complete set of the declassified records of meetings of the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism, one of the most important decision-making bodies on terrorism during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

- Death Squads, Guerrilla Wars, Covert Operations, and Genocide: Guatemala and the United States, 1954 - 1999

The Guatemalan military kept detailed records of its death squad operations. The death squad logbook reveals the fate of scores of Guatemalan citizens who were "disappeared" by security forces during the mid-1980s. Replete with photos of 183 victims and coded references to their executions, the document was smuggled out of the Guatemalan army's intelligence files and provided to human rights advocates, just two days before a UN-sponsored truth commission released its report, which is in the collection. The collection contains more than 2,000 primary documents, including papers from the CIA, State Department, Defense Department, Agency for International Development, National Security Council, U.S. embassy in Guatemala, White House and other government sources.

- Peru: Human Rights, Drugs and Democracy, 1980 - 2000

A uniquely detailed collection of records documenting U.S. foreign policy at work in Latin America, as well as the fascinating story of domestic politics in Peru. Incorporating the latest U.S. government releases, which significantly enrich the historical record, these documents, virtually all previously classified, provide a compelling primary-source portrait of civil war, internal repression, and growing authoritarianism during three successive Peruvian administrations, as witnessed by the U.S. embassy in Lima, U.S. military officials, and U.S. intelligence. Simply put, there is no available compilation of materials on the subject that comes close to the quality and extent of coverage provided by this collection.

- Presidential Directives on National Security, Part II: From Harry Truman to George W. Bush, 1945-2004
 This collection is a follow-up publication to Presidential Directives on National Security From Truman to Clinton, which was published in 1994. As with the first volume, this collection consists of the highest-level documents issued by modern U.S. presidents pertaining to all elements of U.S. national security policy foreign policy, defense policy, intelligence, international economic policy, as well as organizational structure and initiatives. The publication of Part II has been made possible by the declassification since 1994 of a substantial number of previously unavailable records. The collection consists of 1,836 documents, totaling 23,612 pages and covering all administrations from Truman to the George W. Bush administration.

- Afghanistan: The Making of U.S. Policy, 1973 - 1990
 An underdeveloped, tribal-based country, deemed strategically insignificant by the U.S. for decades, Afghanistan became a battleground for the bloodiest and costliest superpower proxy war of the 1980s. Afghanistan, 1973-1990 contains a comprehensive, day-by-day record of the making of U.S. policy towards Afghanistan at that time. Over 15,000 pages of primary source materials provide a wealth of information on topics including the overthrow of Afghan King Zahir Shah, events leading to the 'Saur Revolution' in 1978, Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, U.S. attempts to support the Afghan rebels and negotiations to end the conflict.

- The Berlin Crisis, 1958 - 1962
 A comprehensive record of the making of U.S. policy toward Berlin and West Germany. It contains over 2,900 documents totaling over 11,500 pages. Central to the collection are documents dating from November 1958 to the autumn of 1962 which enable researchers to follow U.S. policy development on a day-to-day basis, discovering the interrelations between U.S. diplomatic and military policy over the course of the crises. The collection also includes a few documents dating from late 1953, when the Eisenhower administration began to formulate its Berlin contingency plan and closes in the late 1960s with a series of newly declassified State Department histories.

- The Cuban Missile Crisis, 1962
 15,000 pages of documents trace the history of the most dangerous crisis of the nuclear era. This collection covers the aftermath of the Bay of Pigs; the U.S. secret war against Fidel Castro; the first intelligence reports pointing to the deployment of Soviet missiles in Cuba; crisis-management in Washington; the military's enforcement of a naval blockade of Cuba and its preparation for a massive invasion; and the agreements reached by John Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev that pulled their nations back from the brink of war.

- Cuban Missile Crisis Revisited: An International Collection of Documents; from the Bay of Pigs to the Brink of Nuclear War, 1959 - 1975

This compilation of documents contains some extraordinary new documentation on the Cuban Missile Crisis that will enhance historical research for years to come. Recently released Russian records will shed light on the decision making of the Soviet Politburo, on previously unknown military deployments of tactical nuclear weapons, and on the type and tenor of communications with Fidel Castro. Cuban documentation will provide historians with a better understanding of Castro's independence during and after the crisis, as well as on the capabilities of Cuban intelligence to track and counter the covert efforts of the Kennedy administration to roll back the Cuban revolution. The U.S. documents in this collection provide new insight into what went wrong at the Bay of Pigs, the decision making process of Kennedy's executive committee, strategic planning of the U.S. military, and previously unidentified confrontations with Soviet forces. This document set contains 1,463 records, covering a date range from 1959, when Castro took power, all the way through the mid 1970s when the issue of Soviet submarines docking for repairs in Cuba briefly recreated the tension of the missile crisis in Washington's relations with Moscow.

- El Salvador: The Making of U.S. Policy, 1977 - 1984

27,000 pages of rarely seen government documents record one of the most passionately debated yet inadequately understood subjects of the day - U.S. intelligence gathering and policy-making activities in El Salvador. Drawn from the files of more than a dozen top-level government agencies, the collection provides a comprehensive picture of America's political, economic and military involvement through the Carter and Reagan administrations.

- The Iran-Contra Affair: The Making of a Scandal, 1983 - 1988

A complete documentary record of the Iran-Contra Affair both from official sources and from materials provided by scholars, journalists and even players in the scandal. Among the remarkable documents in this collection are minutes of Restricted Inter-Agency Group and National Security Planning Group meetings and multiple drafts of National Security Decision Directives highlighting the internal bureaucratic processes involved in formulating and carrying out foreign policy. Many of the documents included have never been declassified before.

- Iraqgate: Saddam Hussein, U.S. Policy and the Prelude to the Persian Gulf War, 1980 - 1994

The collection brings together a wealth of materials which trace U.S. policy toward Iraq prior to the Persian Gulf War, as well as U.S. government reactions to revelations about the Banca Nazionale del Lavoro (BNL) scandal and the secret arming of Saddam Hussein's regime. The set also focuses on the economic issues at play in the U.S. relationship with Iraq. Documents are derived from virtually every federal agency involved in U.S.-Iraq policy and the BNL affair. The collection contains 1,900 documents representing nearly 10,000 pages of rarely-seen documentation from the highest levels of government.

- Japan and the United States Part II: Diplomatic, Security and Economic Relations, 1977-1992

In this second part of the NSA documentation on Japan and U.S. relations, researchers can review primary source government documents that detail the impact of post-Cold War politics on Japan-U.S. relations. As Japan emerges from this period as an economic power in its own right, events such as the Lockheed and Watergate scandals challenge U.S.-Japan diplomatic and economic relations. With the fall of the Soviet regime, the diplomatic rationale for the Japan-U.S. alliance is further tested. As lesser Cold-War adversaries, China and North Korea, and new regional and non-state based threats begin to challenge a unique North American "unipolar moment", Japan-U.S. relations are redefined. The NSA documents covering this period are of central importance in researching these events and issues, and include documentation of summits between Presidents Carter, Reagan and George H.W. Bush and their Japanese counterparts, policy reviews, internal assessments of various aspects of Japan's foreign, military and economic policies, and intelligence reports, as well as memoranda of conversation and diplomatic cables that provide an intimate view of the dynamics of the U.S.-Japan relationship.

- Nicaragua: The Making of U.S. Policy, 1978 - 1990

The Nicaragua collection documents the most controversial foreign policy issue in recent memory: U.S. relations with the Sandinista Revolution. Over 3,500 documents totaling 13,000 pages - many of them recently declassified cables between the State Department and the U.S. Embassy in Managua - provide a highly productive source for the analysis of U.S. policy towards the Nicaraguan revolution from the overthrow of Somoza, through the advent of the U.S.-sponsored Contras to the February 1990 defeat of the revolutionary government.

- The Kissinger Transcripts: A Verbatim Record U.S. Diplomacy, 1969-1977

As national security adviser (1969-1975) and secretary of state (1973-1977), Henry A. Kissinger played a central, and sometimes dominating, role in shaping U.S. foreign and military policy during the presidential administrations of Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford. In this role Kissinger helped prosecute as well as negotiate an end to the Vietnam War; he carried out secret diplomacy to advance détente with the Soviet Union and rapprochement with China. He pressed for covert operations to destroy the Allende regime in Chile, and implemented the tilt to Pakistan during the 1971 South Asia Crisis. In later years he presided over U.S. policy during the October 1973 Middle East war soon after which he employed a "Shuttle Diplomacy" to contain the Middle East crisis. These are only a few of the prominent political events in which he played a major role. Some three quarters of the 2,163 declassified documents in this collection were produced by Kissinger and his assistants on the National Security Council Staff. Even after Kissinger became Secretary of State, he relied on the NSC system for keeping meeting records, especially of the most sensitive matters such as relations with Beijing and Moscow, Middle East diplomacy, or meetings with the president. For those events when he did not rely on the NSC staff to record a meeting, he depended on a State Department country desk director or more senior officials, such as deputy or assistant secretaries of state, to prepare the 'memcons'. A noteworthy feature of the records of Kissinger's memcons is that they are literally verbatim records of the meetings.

- The Philippines: U.S. Policy during the Marcos Years, 1965 - 1986

A quintessential case study of U.S. policy towards a strategic Third World ally highlighting the often conflicting interests that arose between the U.S. and the Marcos presidency. These documents represent a rich primary source for the analysis of U.S. policy towards the Philippines during the 20-year rule of Ferdinand E. Marcos. The bulk of the material consists of papers produced between late 1965 when Marcos ran successfully for his first term as President of the Philippines to February 1986 when he and his entourage fled into exile.

- South Africa: The Making of U.S. Policy, 1962 - 1989

Over 12,000 pages of primary source documents describing U.S. support, implementation, enforcement and violations of the U.N.-sponsored sanctions against South Africa provide a case study of a U.S. foreign policy lacking in strategy and driven by reaction to events. The collection deals with all major events both domestic and foreign relating to South Africa from the reaction of the international community to the 1960 Sharpsville massacre to the developments of the Reagan administration, including South Africa's circumvention of arms embargoes and U.S.-South African support for rebels in Angola.

- The United States and the Two Koreas: 1969-2000

The National Security Archive's collection on U.S.-Korean relations covers both diplomatic, security, and economic relations between the United States and its ally, South Korea; and challenges to the U.S. posed by an adversarial North Korea. It spans events dating from the Nixon administration's response to the April 15, 1969 downing of a U.S. EC-121 reconnaissance plane over the Sea of Japan by North Korean MiG-17s to efforts during the Clinton years to deter Pyongyang's nuclear ambitions. The collection contains 1,697 records released by the State Department, the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency, and other agencies, as well as historical material compiled through research at the National Archives and the presidential libraries. The many newly-declassified documents in the set deal with a wide range of significant themes and events. These include detailed contingency plans for military strikes against North Korea in response to the EC-121 incident; growing concern over North Korea's economic instability; the leadership transition from Kim Il Sung to Kim Jong Il in Pyongyang; political liberalization in South Korea (from the Kwangju uprising to the election of Kim Dae Jung); U.S.-South Korea economic relations; a historic summit meeting between the leaders of South and North Korea in 2000, and secret discussions with other powers

- The U.S. Intelligence on Weapons of Mass Destruction: From World War II to Iraq, 1939 - Present

This collection is comprised of the data compiled over several years by Jeffrey Richelson, one of the world's leading experts on intelligence, who used it as the basis for a new, widely acclaimed book, Spying on the Bomb: American Nuclear Intelligence from Nazi Germany to Iran and North Korea (W.W. Norton, 2006). Writing in The Wall Street Journal, Gabriel Schoenfeld of Commentary Magazine called it "an engrossing book" and "an exhaustively researched account," while Stanford's David Holloway praised Richelson in The New York Times for having "brought together a huge amount of information" that "could hardly be more timely." Now the once largely inaccessible primary source material Richelson used to write his ground-breaking account is available - in one user-friendly place - for researchers to draw upon. Consisting of over 600 documents and 8,300 pages, this is by far the most comprehensive collection of the U.S. Intelligence community's intensive spying effort on the world's nuclear, biological, chemical, ballistic missile, and military space programs from World War II to the present. The records come from an extensive series of Freedom of Information Act requests and in-depth archival research and provide the most complete available picture of the weapons of mass destruction and military space programs of Iraq, China, the Soviet Union, South Africa, France, India and other countries over the past 60 years.

- U.S. Military Uses of Space, 1945 - 1991

Since the late 1950s, the United States has spent several hundred billion dollars to develop and deploy a constellation of spacecraft to support foreign policy and military operations. Military Uses of Space consolidates 15,000 pages of rarely seen documents which provide insight into U.S. policy toward military uses of outer space. Providing a detailed record of the space program from the conceptualization to the implementation of today's advanced capabilities, documents cover military space programs, space policy and space weaponry, all the way up to Desert Storm.

- U.S. Nuclear History: Nuclear Arms and Politics in the Missile Age, 1955 - 1968

This collection comprehensively documents major developments in U.S. nuclear weapons policies and programs from the mid-1950s through 1968, the period that set the nuclear stage for the decades of the Cold War that followed. Given the importance of the nuclear competition to superpower tensions during the post-World War II era, not only as a source of friction in itself but as an element that made the tensions inconceivably dangerous, the documents in this collection introduce the reader to one of the critical inner mechanisms of the Cold War.

- U.S. Nuclear Non-Proliferation Policy, 1945 - 1991

A comprehensive documentary record of U.S. nuclear non-proliferation policy from the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki through the 1989 exporting scandals. More than 2,600 recently declassified and unclassified government documents published here for the first time provide scholars with immediate access to information on three policy-making periods: 1945-1963, when the U.S. policy was international control of atomic energy; 1954-1974, when the policy changed with Eisenhower's 'Atoms for Peace' program; and 1974-1989, with the competing issues of an export-driven non-proliferation policy and U.S. obligations established under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty of 1968.

- U.S. Policy in the Vietnam War, Part I, 1954 - 1968

This collection documents the deadliest conflict in modern U.S. history prior to the current war against terrorism. The goal was to assemble both classic and relatively well-known documentary sources as well as the most recent declassified materials, making a single comprehensive resource for primary substantive research on the Vietnam conflict. The set consists primarily of documents from the White House, National Security Council, State Department, Defense Department and other federal agencies involved in policy-making on the war in Southeast Asia. It also features detailed reporting from the field as well as analysis from the Central Intelligence Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, American embassies overseas, U.S. regional military commands, especially the Military Assistance Command Vietnam (MACV) and the uniformed military services. There are also certain documents from foreign sources, including the governments of South Vietnam, North Vietnam, the Soviet Union, China, the United Kingdom and others. Additional documentation, including diplomatic documents from the governments of Sweden, Hungary and Poland and other material, is available for research on the premises of the National Security Archive.

- U.S. Policy in the Vietnam War, Part II, 1969 – 1975

This collection had its origins in the National Security Archive's interest in documenting the deadliest conflict in modern U.S. history. The goal was to create a collection presenting classic sources, relatively well-known documentary information and the most recently declassified materials to produce a comprehensive resource for primary substantive research on the Vietnam conflict. Part II of this collection presents the first major selection of Vietnam War primary source documents from the Nixon and Ford administrations to be made directly available to scholars. There are important materials in every subset: "Pacification/Phoenix" subset materials highlight one of the most controversial programs of the Vietnam era; the collection also features the Nixon administration's deliberations on withdrawals from South Vietnam, the 1970 invasion of Cambodia and the best available sources on the final peace talks and the "Christmas Bombing." The "Fall of South Vietnam" subset contains detailed coverage on the end of the Saigon government and the Vietnam War. Along with important CIA interpretive materials, there is a separate index to the Gravel Pentagon Papers, as well as the fully declassified diplomatic volumes of the Pentagon Papers. These and other materials are available for research on the premises of the National Security Archive.

Students for a Democratic Society Papers

1958-1970

Students for a Democratic Society was the most radical student movement in 1960s America. The microfilm edition of the SDS Papers contains more than 80,000 pages of records and publications of campus opposition to the establishment. These include unique inside records of radical New Left groups ranging from the Black Panthers to Women Strike for Peace together with information on significant issues in contemporary American politics such as campus violence, the Vietnam peace movement, the CIA, disarmament and military draft.

Terrorism: An International Resource File

1970 - 1990

'This collection, a landmark in the micropublishing world..., is highly recommended for programs of international studies and for in-depth research on a graduate level in a variety of disciplines....'

~ Microform Review

Modern-day terrorism is a threat to every society. With today's high-tech weaponry, increased terrorist brutality and sophisticated communication networks, terrorism has become an international issue. For researchers and others concerned with global security, receiving information about terrorist activities here and overseas is crucial. Terrorism: An International Resource File is a response to the need for a centralized source of this often-scattered information. The material in this collection records the historical, sociological, psychological, medical, political, economic, scientific and legal aspects of terrorism.

Annotated Index

The centerpiece of this collection is the annual, annotated index to documents, policy statements, position papers, lectures, reports, newsletters, conference proceedings, broadcasts, manuals and other material drawn from a number of governmental, non-governmental and intergovernmental sources. Each annual index references documents from all regions of the world as well as from international organizations such as the United Nations. All aspects of terrorism are covered: from motivations to responses; from hostage-taking and nuclear intimidation to state-sponsored terrorism and the role of the media. The information is categorized in the index by author, title, subject, geographic area and document type.

Important Documents

In addition, from 1986 to 1990, a selection of the most important but difficult to access documents are filmed in their entirety. The microfiche documents are selected in consultation with an International Advisory Board and experts in the field. The materials are chosen on the basis of their intrinsic value to specific interdisciplinary concerns and the regional and global study of terrorism.

Backfile Material

Backfile material covering five and 10-year spans from 1970 to 1985 is indexed in separate volumes. From 1986 to 1990, the indexes are yearly. Selected documents from these periods - again, those most difficult to access - are also made available on microfiche. Dr. Alexander, Senior Fellow and Director, International Center for Terrorism Studies, Potomac Institute, Arlington, VA and Director, Inter-University Center for Terrorism Studies directed the ProQuest® project on terrorism as Chair of the International Advisory Board. An author and editor of over 30 books on this subject, he is associated with the Center for Strategic and International Studies, the U.S. Global Strategy Council, and the Institute of Social and Behavioral Pathology, located in Washington, D.C.

Comprehensive Index, Bibliography, and Online Guide

The collection is significantly augmented by a cross-searchable online guide that gives access to thousands of prime documents in the microfiche series and additional bibliographic citations. In addition, the collection has a 7-volume printed guide and comprehensive print bibliography covering policy statements, position papers, lectures, reports, newsletters, conference proceedings, broadcasts, manuals, and other material drawn from a number of prime governmental, non-governmental, and intergovernmental sources. Each annual index references documents from all regions of the world as well as from international organizations such as the United Nations. All aspects of terrorism are covered: from motivations to responses; from hostage-taking and nuclear intimidation to state-sponsored terrorism and the role of the media. All documents and citations are discoverable by author, title, subject, geographic area, and document type.

Underground Press Collections

1963 - 1985

The Underground Press Collection contains newspapers from socialist, anarchist, revolutionary and far right groups that governments have historically labeled as terrorists. The radical movements of the 1960s spawned a multitude of underground newspapers. The causes they espoused or opposed were as diverse as the issues they confronted. This unparalleled microfilm collection allows students and researchers access to more than 550 underground newspapers dating from 1963 to 1985, including titles such as: Chilean Resistance Courier, Anarchy and White Power.

Available in chronological units, or in collections organized by state or country.

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom Papers

1915-1978

Formed in the shadow of the bloodiest stretch of World War I, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (WILPF) has grown to become one of the most influential and active of all international women's organizations. Its action-oriented approach to promoting and demanding world peace and freedom has created public awareness and swayed governmental policies worldwide. Now students of modern social, political, cultural and economic history as well as of women's studies can examine WILPF's successes and setbacks throughout its history. This microfilm collection of League archives and publications from 1915-78 addresses virtually every issue and event of concern to WILPF in this century, including such topics as anti-Semitism, civil rights, pacifism, the Third World, nuclear disarmament, political prisoners and the United Nations. WILPF's influence is felt from Washington to the Soviet Union to the United Nations and it boasts national committees in an unprecedented 96 countries worldwide. Approximately half of the documents offered are in English with the remainder in German, French and other languages. Organized access to this collection is provided through its five separate series:

- Series I: International Executive Committee, 1915-1978 - This series includes the files of the International Executive Committee, which is the official governing body of the League. The correspondence, records, reports, circulars and international congress papers offer a wealth of information on the causes championed by the League
- Series II: Individual Correspondence, 1915-1968 - Covering a wide range of subjects, the correspondence in this series is a major source of background information on the activities of individual WILPF members such as Jane Addams, Gertrude Baer and Rosika Schwimmer
- Series III: National Sections and Other Countries, 1914-1978 - The largest series in the collection, this segment contains correspondence among the International Executive Committee in Geneva, Switzerland and various national sections. Also featured is literature from national sections, resolutions, reports, press clippings and meeting minutes. The files of each country are particularly valuable for evaluating the scope of WILPF's international activities
- Series IV: Topics, 1918-1975 - WILPF's Geneva headquarters created a large topical file covering a variety of subjects, including anti-Semitism, disarmament, economics, education, political prisoners and more. These files represent a particularly rich research source for background on WILPF's philosophical stand on these issues
- Series V: Printed Matter, 1915-1978 - This series contains WILPF's official newsletters dating from 1915, as well as publications and press clippings not generated by WILPF but relevant to the League's international activities and concerns.

The collection was filmed from the holdings of the University of Colorado, Boulder Library with the cooperation of WILPF international headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. Additional documents were assembled from the holdings of the Peace Collection at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. The WILPF Papers is considered one of the most important collections of its kind, encompassing as it does the archival records of a global organization that has worked to eliminate all barriers to peace and freedom.

UMI Dissertation Publishing

Soon after its founding in 1938, UMI became the publisher of record for U.S. doctoral dissertations. To this day, ProQuest fills that role for graduate students whose dissertations and masters theses have been accepted by accredited institutions throughout North America.

How UMI's Dissertation Program Works

Dissertations and theses available from ProQuest /UMI are used by researchers in all fields of study. The ProQuest /UMI dissertation product line – which consists of bibliographic data, indexing, access tools and the published documents themselves – is recognized worldwide because of its comprehensive coverage, high-quality information and rigorous editorial control.

The online ProQuest Dissertation & Theses Database (PQDT) catalogs over 2 million doctoral dissertations and master's theses, dating from the first U.S. dissertation in 1861. Thousands more are added yearly. Over one million dissertations and theses are available in full page image in microform and paper, both bound and unbound. Many are also available in digital format, for downloading over the Web. Dissertations can be located and ordered on a standing order basis or via:

- ProQuest Dissertations & Theses, which provides searching capabilities and online access to citations and abstracts for every title in the database. Titles published since 1997 are available in .PDF digital format and have citation and abstract, plus 24 page previews available. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- ProQuest Dissertation Express for both individuals and libraries. If you have a specific title in mind, Dissertation Express will let you look it up by title, author or publication number. Once you find it, you can place your order immediately via our online ordering system. Use this service when you know exactly which dissertation you need to order. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- DATRIX Direct – custom computerized search service (please see the DATRIX form enclosed in this document). This is an individualized search we perform for you based on your specific research topic.
- UMI Digital Archiving and Access Program - Ask your UMI representative about this new access and preservation service for institutions.

DATRIX DIRECT

Direct to you Successful research depends on your sources. That's why if you're preparing to start a research project, it makes sense to first find out what's been written in your area of interest. You'll not only avoid duplicating someone else's work, you'll benefit from their research. | You could search the titles of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses yourself—if you have the time and patience. Or you can have DATRIX Direct conduct a dissertation search for you that's exhaustive, not exhausting.

Discover sources unique to your topic

DATRIX Direct is an individualized search that gives a one-of-a-kind listing of only those dissertation citations directly relevant to your specific research topic. The result is a computer printout of exactly the bibliographic citations you need. No more and no less. It could be as many as five hundred or as few as none (informing you that your research topic is totally unexplored).

Because it's a computerized search, DATRIX Direct is comprehensive—through UMI's vast computer database of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses dating back to 1861. And with thousands of citations being added to the database every month, DATRIX Direct is more up-to-date than any printed source. ■ Each citation includes a title, author, degree, date, institution, subject category, and order number, as well as where the abstract can be found in UMI's monthly publication Dissertation Abstracts International or the bi monthly Masters Abstracts International.

How to order your search To organize your search, complete both sides of the DATRIX Direct Search Request form and send it to UMI at the address shown. ■

The results of your DATRIX Direct search will be sent first-class mail and should arrive within two weeks of receipt of your order. For faster service, call us toll free at 800-521-3042; outside the U.S. and Canada, call 734-761-4700, ext. 7044.

MATRIX DIRECT SEARCH REQUEST

The success of your search depends on how accurately and specifically you describe your research needs. The information you provide below will help us create a search strategy. Please type or clearly print in ink.

RESEARCH TOPIC Write the proposed title of your study or a summary of your research topic _____

DATABASE MATERIAL TO BE SEARCHED (Please check one.) Dissertations & master's theses Dissertations only Master's theses only

KEYWORDS UMI's dissertation database is accessed by a search for keywords in the dissertation title. The number of relevant citations retrieved depends largely on your keyword strategy. For best results, follow the procedure below:

1 Write 1 to 3 keywords from your research topic that might appear together in the dissertation titles in our database (e.g., "Nursing Burnout"). A keyword can also be numeric ("1980") or alphanumeric ("B12"). Only dissertation titles containing all the words you list on a single line can be retrieved.

2 To avoid having to list all possible word endings for a keyword, simply write the root word and an asterisk. One or more complete words must follow the root word on the same line (e.g., "Nurs*", "Burnout" would search for words such as "nurse, nurses, and nursing" which appear in the same titles as "burnout").

3 Use the other lines for synonyms and alternate words and spellings (e.g., "RN; LPN; BSN").

4 Modify words likely to appear in hundreds of titles with more specific words.

5 If appropriate, use the right-hand column to list keywords that exclude data you don't want. (e.g., "Nurs", "Home" and "Nurs", "Homes" would exclude titles relating to nursing homes or home nursing. Note that the computer recognizes no word order.)

DEGREE DATES (optional) You may narrow the database search to certain years or time periods (e.g., "1980 through 1983"). This is especially recommended for broad categories such as "Education, Administrative", for which nearly 1,200 titles are added each year.

INSTITUTIONS AWARDING DEGREES (optional) You may restrict the search to dissertations and master's theses prepared for specific institutions (e.g., "New York University and UCLA").
