

STUDENT FELLOWS PROGRAM Fall 2017

The Center for Diversity, Inclusion, and Belonging seeks applications from NYU Law students for its student fellows program, to take place during the Fall 2017 semester. The Center's mission is to advance interdisciplinary legal scholarship on diversity, inclusion, and belonging; support the Law School community as it strives to live up to those values; and share expertise with the broader world through targeted engagement with public and private institutions.

Student fellows have the opportunity to get involved in all aspects of the Center's work, such as by: executing projects to make the Law School environment more diverse and inclusive; conducting research into topics of diversity, inclusion, and belonging under the guidance and supervision of Center leadership; contributing to the Center's sharing of expertise on diversity and inclusion with external organizations; and assisting with the Center's speaker series. Fellows may also be involved in the Center's long-term planning and the initiation of future projects. Fellows will receive a stipend, be featured on the Center's website, and secure reserved seats at Center events. The expected time commitment is an average of 8 hours per week over 12 weeks.

If you are interested, please submit the following materials in a single PDF to the Center's Executive Director, David Glasgow, at david.glasgow@nyu.edu:

- Cover letter explaining why you would like to become a student fellow of the Center and your interest in the fields of diversity, inclusion, and belonging
- Resume
- Unofficial NYU Law transcript

Applications will be considered on a rolling basis. Students from all class levels are welcome to apply. To learn more about the Center for Diversity, Inclusion, and Belonging, visit law.nyu.edu/centers/belonging.
