

Investing in America: Expanding Access to Finance to Solve Our Shared Challenges

In this forthcoming book, meet the innovators expanding access to financing so more people can turn their hard work into opportunity.

America built the world's most dynamic economy. Now let's make it work for everyone. For millions of Americans, full-time work no longer guarantees financial security, homeownership feels out of reach, and opportunity depends too much on who you are or where you live.

Investing in America tells the inspiring stories of the innovators addressing these shared challenges by providing fair financing solutions to overlooked people and communities. From Maine to California, Alaska to Florida, and 38 states in between, these examples show a new way to solve seemingly intractable challenges. The book describes what a reader with a savings account, $1, and an internet connection can do to Invest in America themselves.

Readers will also find:

- Profiles of innovators tackling challenges from affordable housing to fair access to investment capital for underserved communities
- Practical guidance on finding investments and advisors who can help align your portfolio with national economic solutions
- An overview of policy changes creating new opportunities to shift markets toward more equitable outcomes across America
- Real-world mini-case studies showing how foundations, family offices, and individual investors have deployed capital for impact
- A bipartisan, patriotic perspective on how Americans from across the political spectrum are uniting to expand economic opportunity
