CFTC Director of Enforcement David Miller Announces the CFTC's Enforcement Priorities and Discusses Insider Trading in the Prediction Markets

Tuesday, March 31, 2026

David Miller, Director of Enforcement, CFTC

David I. Miller is the Director of Enforcement at the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. In this role, he leads the Division of Enforcement, which investigates and prosecutes alleged violations of the Commodity Exchange Act and Commission regulations. Mr. Miller joined the CFTC from private practice, having served as a litigation partner at two global law firms, Greenberg Traurig and Morgan Lewis. His practice focused on white-collar defense, government and internal investigations, commodities and securities enforcement, complex civil litigation, digital asset enforcement and regulatory issues, and national security matters. Mr. Miller represented clients before the CFTC, SEC, Department of Justice, state attorneys general offices, and self-regulatory organizations, and he has litigated and tried criminal and civil cases in courts across the country. Previously, Mr. Miller spent nearly a decade in government service, including five years as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Southern District of New York. Mr. Miller also served as a terrorism prosecutor with the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., as a Special Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Eastern District of Virginia, and as an Assistant General Counsel for the Central Intelligence Agency. He received his J.D. from New York University School of Law and his B.A., magna cum laude, from Georgetown University.
